

【Shenzhen】 Creative cuisine and DIY crafts A perfect blend of dining and entertainment!

	Dining is not just about filling your stomach. It can also be an entertaining experience. In Nantou Ancient City, 'Who Painted My Toast' reimagines bread as a creative canvas. Guests can paint freely using colourful sauces, adding a playful twist to every bite.
	Simply tell the staff what you would like to draw, and they will provide the "paints" (sweet and sour sauce) and "canvas" (toast), along with helpful guidance. Adults and children alike can get started with ease. Once your masterpiece is complete, it goes into the oven and your creation is transformed into a piping hot treat.
	The shop also offers a "Cartoon Pancake" experience, where staff sketch the outline and you fill in the colours to create an adorable pancake of your own. For a single price, you get both a meal and a fun activity, making it great value for money.
	Apart from "Who Painted My Toast", Nantou Ancient City also features a range of DIY craft shops offering activities such as embroidered fabric patches and custom keycaps, as well as historical landmarks including the South Gate of Nantou, bearing the four characters "Ling Nan Zhong Zhen" on the plaque above, and the Nantou Ancient City Museum, which showcases 1,700 years of Shenzhen's development. This weekend, let's pay a visit to this family-friendly destination, which combines heritage with creative culture!
